About	I am a front-side Web Developer specialising in CSS-P (the use of CSS to display the same data for varying formats—web, print, aural narrators, handheld devices) with a leaning towards accessibility and usability, as well as a by-product of search-engine friendliness. I am a perfectionist and check thoroughly on any semantics problems, typography problems (a side hobby of mine is the study of typography, and its conversion onto the web,) and trying to think of the best way to find a solution that meets a client's need while being semantically sound and accessible to all users (or, perhaps more realistically, as many users as is possible.)

Work History

University of Western Australia Web Developer Jul 2008–Present	Cutting up designs, rebranding ASP and .NET web applications, technical client liaison, writing new (and rewriting old) code to WCAG Guidelines 2.0 level AA, documenting and training staff members on development procedures and correct usage.
Highway 1 Internet Solutions Front-side Web Developer Jun 2004–Feb 2008	Performing a range of tasks including site cutups, drawing code to a number of formats (PHP, ASP, XHTML 1.0 Strict/xHTML 1.1 + CSS, Accessibility Levels 1, 2, 3 and Section 508) as well as graphical design and site maintenance. In my time at Highway 1 I have managed to completely

change the processes behind front-side development, from unsemantic tabled layouts to streamlined CSS, while researching new methods for progressive enhancement.

Echidna Web Design
Front-side Web Developer
Aug 2005–Nov 2005

I was the main front-side developer for a short time, performing site cutups as well as quickly designing and skinning each site's admin section.

While only working temporarily for Echidna, I began to change the thought processes behind site cutups, how they could achieve more using more cutting-edge code.

Accountants Australia
IT Assistant
Nov 2001–Present

Setting up and maintaining a network, updating hardware and software, handling general IT problems (viruses, spyware, general configuration/fixing of programs.)

Burr ridge Martial Arts
Taekwondo Instructor
Sept 2003–Feb 2004

I was dealing with instructing people of all ages in martial arts, maintaining client relations, servicing client enquiries/issues and basic dealings with signing up new students.

In my time with Burr ridge Martial Arts I helped develop and trial new methods of teaching students, especially the Little Dragons (ages 3–7.)

Computing Skills

I have a decent-to-strong grasp of the following:

- HTML/xHTML (served as application/xhtml+xml, not as tag soup);
- CSS;
- Javascript; and
- PHP.

With at least an understanding of the following:

- ASP/.NET;
- Java;
- JSP;
- Perl;
- SQL;

- XML;
- Unix platforms;
- Windows (2000, 2000 Server, XP); and
- Mac OS X.
